Life jackets are useful in many environments, including a backyard gathering with a pool present, when boating, and when around water, but not expected to be in the water.

When other layers of protection may break down, life jackets can provide a critical layer of protection to prevent drowning!